

Alyssa Phillips BSN, RN, TIP

To help regulate their temperature and ensure their safety, isolettes are used with our tiniest patients in the NICU. For those requiring arterial lines to monitor blood pressure, the placement of the line transducer is vital to capturing accurate readings. Using CAD software, Alyssa designed and then 3D printed a new device that, combined with a suction cup, that streamlines the repositioning of the transducer in the isolette.